- serious violence – including use of firearms and other offensive weapons
- sexual offences- rape, sexually violent assault and historic abuse
- drug trafficking and
- fraud.

Expertise

Modern Slavery

With the past few years giving rise to more prosecutions relating to modern slavery and human trafficking, Benedict's experience in this field has grown significantly.

Benedict both defends and prosecutes in these cases, which are often complex in terms of both fact and law. He has experience of providing high-calibre advice and advocacy in cases involving:

- sex trafficking and exploitation
- domestic servitude
- forced labour in the construction and agricultural sector
- forced child labour

Notable Modern Slavery cases

R v B, L and others (2022), Norwich Crown Court prosecuting multi-handed case of exploitation and human trafficking involving sex workers.

R v B (2022)

defending in a drugs supply case that involved arguments using Section 45 of the Modern Slavery Act 2015.

Sexual Offences

Benedict has extensive experience of both prosecuting and defending in cases involving allegations of serious sexual offences, including:

- rape and sexual assault
- possession of indecent images
- sexual abuse involving children

These cases often require delicate and sensitive handling, and Benedict approaches each case in a considered way, applying forensic analysis and objectivity where necessary.

Notable Sexual Offences cases

R v K (2019), Norwich Crown Court

successfully defended trial on counts of 'date rape'

Historic Sexual Offences

Cases involving historical sexual offences against children committed by individuals working in institutions such as children's homes and churches, are evidentially complex and emotionally demanding.

Benedict has considerable expertise of defending in these cases which, by their very nature require a methodical and skilled approach.

Notable Historic Sexual Offences cases

R v M (2018), Peterborough Crown Court defended trial on 32 counts of historic rape and sexual assault with multiple complainants.

R v U (2022), Ipswich Crown Court defended trial of local religious leader facing 21 counts of historic sexual assault with multiple complainants.

Gangs & Organised Crime Groups

Benedict has considerable prosecution experience in cases involving Organised Crime Groups (OCGs) and county lines drugs supply.

Notable Gangs & Organised Crime Groups cases

R v M, A, A and others (2022) Norwich Crown Court
